MYSTERY CLUB.

Mrs. Roger Holland was hostess to the Mystery club Thursday afternoon at her home on South Main street. A profusion of bright yellow Johnquills decorated the spacious living-room where the guests were entertained. Guests for four tables of bridge were invited.

NORTH SIDE CLUB.

Mrs. Charles Z. Donaldson entertained the North Side club Tuesday afternoon at her home on College boulevard. Johnquills ornamented the living-room where the guests were entertained. Two tables were arranged for bridge. Those playing were Messdames Inman Fay, Hubert Jones, Don Brannen, Pete Donaldson, Harry W. Smith, Barney Averitt, Grover Brannen, and Misses Kathleen McCroan, Georgia Blitch, Elma Wimberly and Lucy Blitch.

VALENTINE PARTY.

An event thoroughly enjoyed was the masquerade Valentine party Friday evening given by the girls of the High School literary society complimentary to the boys of the society, at the High School auditorium.

The spacious room was decorated with hanging moss and hearts. The color motif, red and white, was carried out in every detail. The prize for the person wearing their mask undiscovered longest was won by Linton Renfro. Miss Frances Moyer won first prize for the prettiest costume, Miss Joie Helen Mathews second and Miss Johnnie Barnes third.

White brick cream with red hearts in the center and red hearts were served in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Monte and the High School faculty were chaperones.

WHILE-AWAY CLUB.

Mrs. W. H. Blitch very delightfully entertained the members of the While-Away club Friday afternoon at her home on Broad street. Quantities of bright yellow Johnquills arranged in baskets decorated the living-rooms where the guests were entertained. Eight tables were arranged for progressive rock. At the conclusion of the games the hostess served a salad course.

"JOLLY FRENCH KNOTTERS."

Mrs. Leland Moore very delightfully entertained the members of the "Jolly French Knotters" club Thursday afternoon at her home on South Main street.

The merry guests spent a pleasant time sewing, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments.

FOR BRIDE-ELECT.

A lovely social event of Tuesday evening was the kitchen shower given by Miss Wilma Waters in compliance to Miss Manona Alderman, a bride-elect of the week.

The rooms where the guests were entertained were beautifully decorated and the color scheme of yellow and green was carried out in every detail. Eight tables were arranged for cards. After the games, the guests were given cards tied with green and yellow ribbons and requested to write advice or a wish to the bride.

About 9:30 the postman, Mr. M. W. Waters, arrived with the many gifts for the honoree. Late in the evening Miss Waters served dainty refreshments, assisted by her mother, Mrs. M. W. Waters.

LAND POSTERS.—We have supply of land posters on hand at Times office at 40 cents each.

ALDERMAN-HARDEE.

Miss Beulah Alderman and Mr. R. A. Hardee were united in marriage at Statesboro on the afternoon of Wednesday, Feb. 20th, by Judge E. D. Holland.

Miss Alderman is a Bulloch county young woman, daughter of the late Mr. Ann P. Alderman. Mr. Hardee is from New York. They left immediately after the marriage to make their home in New York.

FOR MRS. QUATTLEBAUM.

Saturday afternoon the home of Mrs. W. H. Simmons was the scene of a lovely social event when Mrs. J. G. Watson, Mrs. Howell Cone, Mrs. W. H. Ellis, Mrs. J. D. Fletcher and Mrs. Simmons were joint hostesses, entertaining in celebration of Mrs. A. W. Quattlebaum's birthday.

The rooms of the home were artistically decorated with yellow and white Johnquills and narcissi were the flowers used.

A feature of the afternoon was the candy contest. A jar of vari-colored candies was passed and each guest guessed the number of pieces the jar contained. Mrs. E. H. Kennedy was the winner. Another feature was the large red valentine heart upon which each guest wrote a birthday wish to Mrs. Quattlebaum. Then the heart was cut into small pieces for her to place together and read the many fond expressions. Later white brick cream with yellow hearts in the center and angel food cake was served.

Another striking feature was the toast given by Mr. J. G. Watson in honor, followed by a toast by Mrs. Howell Cone to the guests.

Mrs. Homer Simmons presented Mrs. Quattlebaum with an embossed cake. In the center was a lace valentine interspersed with red candles. This she carried to Dr. Quattlebaum. In accepting the gift, Mrs. Quattlebaum made a short but impressive talk.

The guest list included Messdames A. W. Quattlebaum, A. J. Mooney, R. F. Donaldson, R. Lee Moore, H. B. Steere, S. H. Lichtenstein, E. H. Kennedy, W. H. Aldred, C. B. Mathews, Nattie Allen, James Brannen, W. T. Granade, J. G. Moore, E. N. Quattlebaum, Janie Asvill, Orville McLeane, Miss Julia Carmichael.

FRANK P. LEE.

Frank P. Lee, aged 68 years, died Saturday afternoon at his home on Savannah avenue, his death being due to paralysis, with which he was first stricken several weeks before. Interment was in East Side cemetery Sunday afternoon, being conducted by Rev. Leland Moore.

Deceased is survived by his wife and a number of sons and daughters, who by several brothers and sisters. He was a native of Bulloch county but for several years made his home in Jacksonville, Fla. He had been engaged in grocery business in Statesboro for the past several years.

ENUMERATES GEORGIA CAPTAINS OF PROGRESS

OUTSTANDING LEADERS WHO NEED THE CO-OPERATION OF STATE'S ENTIRE CITIZENSHIP

Speaking at Cairo before the Georgia Press Association, Editor Clarence Poe, of the Progressive Farmer appealed to Georgia editors to pay less attention to politics and give more attention to leaders and movements for agricultural, industrial, and social progress.

Inasmuch as the duty of supporting these leaders lies so strongly on the general citizenship of the state as on the newspapers, it is felt that there will be general interest in the concluding paragraphs of Editor Poe's earnest appeal:

"It matters little whether men tomorrow will remember or forget the mere combination of consonants and vowels which make our names. It matters little whether men tomorrow will treasure in painting and sculpture or utterly forget the form of our bodies and the mold of our features. But what does matter mightily is that in the hearts and spirits of men there shall live on and gleam on some flame that we have kindled. It may be a love of the beautiful in nature or art or literature. It may be a quickened patriotism which will make men and women more gladly serve their state and their communities. It may be a passion for truth and justice, mercy and righteousness, which will help leave the lump of our social order until the ideals of the Nazarene become the realities of law and custom.

"About us today in every county in Georgia and in every town are opportunities such as these, if we but look for them with eyes opened by a desire to serve, and if it may then be said as it was said of Paul of old, that we were 'disobedient to the heavenly vision.'

"You may hold up the hands of Superintendent Ballard, Chancellor Barrow and President Brittain, and your county educational leaders, and they set out to do in Georgia an educational system worthy of the state and her future.

"You may get behind Dr. A. M. Soule of the State College of Agriculture, and the officers of the Georgia Association, and your other agricultural leaders as they seek to duplicate in every Georgia county the marvelous achievement with which Turner county has astonished the south.

"You may give the full strength of your support to John N. Hodder, W. R. Noel, and Editor W. T. Anderson, and other good roads advocates as they work to give Georgia a modern system of highways and so free the people from the curse of isolation.

"You may cheer on state and local health authorities and help save boys and girls, men and women, from preventable diseases and preventable death.

"You may boast J. E. Conwell in his great work for co-operative marketing of Georgia cotton.

"You may co-operate with G. V. Cunningham and Miss Lora Dowdle as they seek to double the enrollment in boys' and girls' club work in your county.

"You may support F. E. Land and Paul Chapman as they endeavor to make every high school a vital agency in improving the farming and home life of the community—a little heaven that they may speedily leave the whole lump.

"You may join Miss Mary Creswell in her superb service in lightening the labor and lessening the interests of farmers' wives.

"You may help Dr. L. L. Knight in preserving the history and traditions of your community. You may co-operate with the Georgia Library Commission as it offers to any neighborhood of your county the richest treasures of the world's literature.

"You may help us to see it that Gutzon Borglum gets adequate support as he carves out on Stone Mountain a memorial that will rank with the Parthenon and the Pyramids and spread the fame of Georgia around the world. But remembering that it is not enough to have art and music and beauty in our great cities—grand opera in Atlanta and unforgettable beautiful parks and streets in Savannah—let us heed the call of those who wish to see the beauty of the world's greatest art in every Georgia home and school room, a new appreciation of music in every Georgia town or neighborhood, and the beauty of flowers, vines, shrubs, and statuary trees about every home in the commonwealth.

"These are the duties and opportunities that call to us and that I would leave with you—opportunities uncounted more beautiful than anything in the fictional politics with which Georgia has been cursed—and which summon us to that true greatness not far from Thomas Carlyle when he said: 'Oh, it is great and there is no other greatness, to make some work of God's creation more fitful, better, more worthy of God.'

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS MAKE TOUR OF GEORGIA

Dr. H. E. Frail, of New York, the great Baptist Sunday-school specialist, and Miss Myra Batchelder, children's division superintendent of the Georgia Sunday-school Association, have just completed a tour through the state of Georgia in the interest of the daily vacation schools.

From January 21 to February 17 they visited eighteen cities and towns, holding a meeting of two sessions in all places.

As a result of this tour, it is said that numerous requests are coming into the Sunday-school office for the training of workers to teach in these schools.

The daily vacation Bible school is said to be giving more religious instruction to children in its short period of four to six weeks than the Sunday-school gives in a year's time. Every community needs such a school, and indications are that the need will be met.

Two years ago Georgia had only four daily vacation Bible schools. Last year there were twenty-three, and it is expected that there will be more than one hundred this year.

Unless the Republican leaders of the house are successful in their opposition, there will be a searching investigation of the U. S. Shipping Board under authority of a resolution introduced by Congressman Ewen L. Davis, democrat, Tennessee. While Representative Davis makes no charges against officials of the board, he says, there is a general demand for inquiry and information in his possession indicates the need of a thorough scrutiny of its affairs.

Much of the information that has come to him, Congressman Davis says, is "of a sensational nature," and "more of the same work is being submitted to him almost daily. This statement coincides with reports of graft, extravagance, and incompetence long current in Washington.

"My opinion is that there should be a constructive investigation with a primary view of ascertaining the character and condition of all the property in charge of the Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation with the purpose of taking steps to eliminate waste, extravagance and inefficiency."

Those responsible for the inefficiency, graft, and favoritism disclosed in the investigation, Congressman Davis says, should be made to bear the odium of it.

CARD FROM BRUCE DONALDSON

To the Voters of Bulloch County:

In the primary of yesterday, I ran in the lead for the office of tax collector. For this honor I am grateful to the voters of Bulloch county. We are almost in sight of the goal for which we are striving—the office of tax collector. The final test is to be on March 12th, when the second primary will be run. If my friends stand by me then as loyally as they have already done, we will be the winners. I believe they will do it, and I am thanking them for their help.

DELEGATES INVITED TO SEE U. S. HIGHWAYS

REPRESENTATIVES FROM LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES TO BE GUESTS OF HIGHWAY BOARD.

Forty representatives from twenty Latin American countries will make an intensive field study of highways and highway transport in the United States early this summer as guests of the Highway Education Board, Dr. John I. Tigert, chairman, announced today.

Invitations to be sent the prospective delegates, who are to be of the highest standing in their respective countries, will be sent to the United States. They will, it is said, be the official representatives of their governments. A minimum of one delegate from each country will be present, while two or three representatives will be sought from several of the larger republics, depending upon size, population, and other factors.

Dr. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education in the Department of the Interior, and chairman of the board, said that co-operating with the board in plans now being made for care and entertainment of the visitors are various government departments and bureaus, and national organizations. In particular the project has the endorsement and support of Hubert W. Secretary of the United States Department of the Interior, Herbert Hoover, secretary of the United States Department of Commerce, and other government agencies. They will lend the facilities of their department toward making the visit of the delegation a success.

Among the national organizations like the United States that will be active in support of the board in its endeavor are the American Association of States Highway Officials, the American Road Builders' Association, the Society of Automotive Engineers, and the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

The countries from which representatives will be chosen include Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Salvador, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan American Union, has tendered the use of the Pan American building as headquarters of the delegation while in Washington, and the Pan American Union will assist in arrangements for the guests, both while en route and while in this country. The executive committee of the union, consisting of the ambassadors, ministers and official representatives of the more progressive states of the world, have officially approved the project as proposed.

J. Walter Drake, assistant secretary of the department of commerce, and Thomas H. MacDonaid, chief of the United States bureau of public roads, department of agriculture, who, with Dr. Rowe, were originators of the plan, also will participate in the arrangements and survey. Dr. G. A. Sherwell, secretary general of the Inter-American High Commission, has agreed to give the benefit of his wide South American experience.

It is proposed to conduct the Pan American visitors, who are to be men of broad experience in highway affairs in their respective countries, on a survey of approximately three weeks' duration through several of the more progressive states of the union so that they may learn firsthand what our vast experience in highway building and in highway transport has taught the engineers and economists of this country. It is believed the visit will result in an interchange of thought and experience that will prove mutually helpful and beneficial to all the governments affected.

Many problems in highway engineering and in automotive transportation are shared jointly by the American continents and their peoples, and it is hoped by those who direct the policies both here and in the countries to the south that this preferred co-operation will result in a closer working relationship that will make for more efficient management and awakened public interest general.

You, too, should use Self-Rising Flour

SELF-RISING flour makes friends wherever it is used. Its economy, its healthfulness, its dependability, its delightful tastiness, its perfect leavening qualities—all these have won millions to it.

"I have used self-rising flour for many years. Biscuits and breads are lovely, and I get fine results with it for cakes," writes a Tennessee housewife. "I've never experienced an absolute failure when using self-rising flour," comments another. "I am thoroughly convinced that self-rising flour is a boon to the average housekeeper," says a lady from Mississippi. "I'd rather use it for cakes than any other flour," comes an endorsement from Alabama.

Remember, self-rising flour is no different from the plain flour you have used, except that it has mixed with it, in exactly the correct proportions, pure phosphate baking powder and salt.

Insist on getting guaranteed self-rising flour. Look for the Blue Shield on the bag.

FOLLOW THESE FIVE RULES For Making Perfect Biscuits with Self-Rising Flour. (1) See that your oven is hot. (2) Always use sweet milk or cold water. (3) Never add baking powder, soda or salt. (4) Use good shortening—lard, vegetable fat or butter. (5) Make soft dough—knead lightly.

HOW TO CONTROL THE BOLL WEEVIL WITH POISON

Plant your cotton on the best soil of the farm and on land that is high and well drained. The land should be prepared and fertilizer applied in time for the beds to become thoroughly settled before time for planting. The fertilizer should be high in nitrogen. As a general rule, in my opinion, about 10-12 will give the best results. Some nitrate of soda can be used in planting, but not in direct contact with the seed or on top of the ground, just before the cotton comes up, right over the cotton. Another application can be made of top dressing fertilizer about the time the cotton begins to fruit heavily.

The rows and distance in the drills should be the same as would give the best results if you had no boll weevil, one stalk in a hill. Plenty of seed should be used to secure a good stand. Always use good improved pedigreed seed and if the soil is infected with wilt, use a good wilt resistant cotton seed. Plant the cotton when the ground is thoroughly warm, so that you will be sure to get a good stand, just as though you were going to have no weevil. Just before the squares are large enough to be punctured by the weevil, poison should be applied in the bud of the cotton, probably three, and at least two applications. The last application should be made just as the first blossoms begin to appear. For these applications use either a good syrup and arsenic mixture, or a small amount of dust, being sure that the bud of every stalk receives the poison.

After these applications, watch your field carefully and when you find a spot infested with the weevil, take a hand-gun and dust this spot and pick up every punctured square. Try to blot the weevil out in this spot. This will require two or three applications and the same amount of square picking. We have often eradicated the weevil in fields of cotton by this method of picking squares in spots before we discovered poison. It is always safe and pays to pick up any squares that the over-wintered weevils puncture, either in spots or throughout the field.

Just as soon as you find that the weevil has appeared in your field generally, begin poisoning with dust and then dust regularly every week whether rainy or dry weather, or whether or not you see any weevil. Should your infestation become heavy, dust every three or four days until the weevil is under control.

Continue dusting until your fruit is mature. Use a good dust gun and be sure that you have a good dust. Have your fertilizer inspector take samples of your dust and have them analyzed by the department of agriculture.

Try to induce your neighbor to dust, as it will be difficult for you to protect your field from migratory weevils late in the season unless he does. Follow this method and you can produce a hundred per cent of a crop, so far as the weevil is concerned, as if your neighbor dusts with you, and about ninety per cent of a crop if you are infested with migratory weevils.

The above has been found by the Georgia State Board of Entomology through its experiment stations and work with the farmers over a period of years, the best method for the control of the boll weevil, and therefore recommends it to the farmers with the assurance to them that if followed they can produce a maximum cotton crop.

You may continue the use of syrup mixtures if you so desire, at regular intervals from the time you begin your early poisoning, as long as you find you have the weevil under control, by this method. Should you lose control and your fields become infested, begin dusting at once with pure calcium arsenate.

Prepare to take care of every acre of cotton you plant. Don't depend on the weather to take care of you. The cold weather has probably helped, dry weather will probably help. Good seasons help a good farmer. Plant all the cotton you can cultivate and poison properly. Be sure to have your poison ready to fight—and fight—it will be necessary. You will then make a good crop of cotton this year. This will make you and community prosperous.

IRA W. WILLIAMS,
State Entomologist.

GEORGIA CHILDREN HELP BUILD MEMORIAL

STONE MOUNTAIN CONFEDERATE MONUMENTAL ASSOCIATION HAS CHILDREN'S ROLL.

The Children's Founders Roll was inaugurated by the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental Association in order that the children of the south might have a share in the carving of the greatest monument that the world has ever known.

It provides for the enrollment of each child under sixteen years of age in the great Book of Memory which will occupy the place of honor in Memorial Hall at Stone Mountain, and for the memorialization of a Confederate soldier whom each wishes to honor.

Each child who makes a contribution will receive a small bronze medal designed by Gutzon Borglum, showing that he is one of the founders of the memorial and that, when his name has been inscribed in the great volume of the Children's Founders Roll, he will receive a certificate that will show the number of the page and the line on which his name appears.

The Book of Memory will be one of the world's greatest books, beautifully bound and containing the names of all the children of the south who have enrolled themselves in the great volume of the Children's Founders Roll. It will be held between bronze covers and will be placed in Memorial Hall so that the children themselves can go there later and read their own names and those of their ancestors when they have memorialized.

Hundreds of children from all parts of the country have already enrolled their names and cards bearing their serial numbers have already been issued to them pending the completion of the medal and the great book. Each child's name will be enrolled in the order in which it is received at the office of the association.

Application blanks will be furnished to all persons who desire to enroll their children; and organizations also may secure as many of the blanks as they need to enroll the children.

Names may be sent in through the mails without the application blank.

One dollar was named as the children's contribution because the Association feels that it is small enough to enable every child in the south to have a part in the memorial. It also makes it possible for all families to enroll the names of their beloved Confederate kinsmen, whether or not they feel that they can take one of the adult founders roll memberships of one thousand dollars.

If every child in the south contributes his share to the memorial it will have the honor and glory of helping to build to world's greatest monument to the world's greatest heroes but that they will have contributed substantially to the memorial fund, thereby enabling the work to be finished much more quickly.

The association hopes that Memorial Day of this year will see the greatest demonstration of a people's love for its dead that the south has ever known and that the children, through their contributions to the Founders' Roll, will have a notable part in establishing the records of the day.

Years ago when the mothers of the present generation were children they gathered each year in memory of the dead. With their own hands they gathered the blossoms from their gardens, from the fields and woods, and brought them where the women of the south were gathered to weave garlands. As childish fingers bound these blossoms into fragrant circles of remembrance, their parents stirred and leaped with a strange pride while tears fell upon their eager little hands among the flowers. From older lips they learned the story of the sixties as they sat amidst memorial blossoms and next day as they march.

ed among the varied ranks of the Confederate dead to lay their garlands down they trod not by the dust of graves but by the tombs of glory. The children of today no longer meet to weave memorial wreaths though blossoms are laid each year yet upon graves of the Confederacy soldiers. They have lost something of the heritage, but other years have given to the children of the south, but now, because of the Stone Mountain memorial, the south is being quickened again to love, to pride, to tears by the memories of those heroic days. The children again are drawn into the circle of past years by the Children's Founders Roll and in their hearts is springing the little flame of pride that warmed the tears of the generations between them and the war.

Let this memorial day see the completion of the Children's Founders Roll as a great garland of love for the Confederate dead. May every child in the south have his and her share in the weaving of memory's wreath so that when the great book at the mountain stands open for the world to see not a name shall be missing from that roll of fame.

INDIFFERENT CITIZENSHIP.

A campaign for the purpose of increasing popular interest in the highest civil duty of each and every citizen—that of voting—should be supported by every right thinking person.

It is an abuse of citizenship not to take an active interest in community affairs—a sin both of omission and commission. There is in this state and every other an almost universal indifference to the administrative affairs of the community. Too much is left to the designing demagogues who seek office, and too little to the personal responsibility of the individual citizen and voter.

Communities are what its citizens are—no more, no less. The indifference of the citizenry soon finds its reflection in the community itself.

Such a campaign is for the sole purpose of awakening interest in voting, of securing a larger registration and a larger attendance at the polls. This is in the belief that better government, more efficient government, government more nearly representative of the class that now profits by the indifference of the electorate, will be the logical result of an awakened interest, a larger registration and a larger vote.

We are willing to leave our destiny as a community in the hands of all the people, for better or for worse, but we are not content to leave it to the guidance and in the hands of the class who profit by the indifference of the property-owning tax-paying people of the community. It is time to shake off this civic slothfulness, for that is what it amounts to. It is time that every citizen saw his duty. It is a time for action and not for idleness.

The unorganized, home-owning, tax-paying citizenship have but one defense—the ballot.

THE FARMER'S DOLLAR.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, when asked at the last session of Congress by Representative Davis of Minnesota, to furnish data as to the purchasing power of the dollar, replied by sending to Mr. Davis the figures compiled by the joint commission of agricultural inquiry. These figures indicated the years between 1890 and 1922. It is significant that the only years showing the farmer's dollar to be worth more than par to him were years of Democratic administration. The peak years were those in which the United World tariff law was in force. In 1894 the farmer's dollar was worth 105. In 1916 it was worth 100; in 1910, it dropped to 97—the only year of the nine years of that tariff in which it was below par. In 1917, it was worth 107; in 1918, 112; in 1920, the Representative Wallace took the power, 97; in 1921, 84, and in 1922, 87. These figures, he it is remembered, are from a Republican cabinet officer. And now, according to the New York Tribune, which quotes a report of the national industrial conference board, the American dollar is worth only 85 cents as compared with the dollar of 1914.

A REACTIONARY PROPOSAL.

The state of Washington is to be harassed with an initiative measure which would provide for "home rule" permitting cities in the state to regulate telephone companies within their boundaries, instead of having telephone companies come under the jurisdiction of the state department of public works, which department corresponds to public service commissions in other states. In other words, the proposed measure would strip back twenty years in the matter of public utility regulation, and throw the telephone companies back into ward politics where they could be the plaything of every political administration.

Corruption that developed under this practice in years past, was the reason for establishing state regulation, which has taken state public service companies, including telephone, out of politics.

The term "home rule" is a misnomer and misleads the voter. "Home rule" means political rule, rather than the rule of a commission by duly constituted authority capable of giving their whole time and attention to the subject.

The agitation for "home rule" is really a compliment to state regulation. The movement does not come from the people, but is inaugurated by politicians who through state regulation have lost their opportunity to juggle local public utilities by making them campaign issues.

A STARVING GERMANY.

It is estimated by the United States expert, attached to the embassy at Berlin, that about a third of Germany's population—twenty million people, in round numbers—are suffering acute privation this winter. This is due, he claims, to unemployment, financial exhaustion of the government, inability of the merchants to pay for importations, the breakdown of currency, the lack of means of distribution of supplies from farms to the cities, and the total poverty of large masses of the people.

This is a distressing situation. Doubtless millions of American dollars will be sent to Germany this winter in the form of supplies of all sorts. But it will only alleviate in a minor degree the wide-spread suffering among the people. The remedy which should be forthcoming is not as yet visible. Stability of government and stability of finance are both needed. It is almost a truism that a country cannot stabilize itself and its finances in this day without support from other nations, especially after the devastation of frightful war and ruinous terms imposed by the victors.

The United States should do something more than follow a policy of isolation and aloofness.

KILL A NATION.

Lenine is dead in Russia after a brief but stormy career as ruler of that country.

In England a labor government is to guide the destinies of that great nation. What the outcome of Lenine's teachings will be, no one can say. What the change of control in England will produce, no one can forecast. This much is certain, however, and has been proved by past experience: When a reformer or radical agitator starts out to rule the world he finds certain established rules and practices developed because of the inborn traits of human nature, and he cannot do just as he pleases.

A government that crushes and kills ambition in the individual will not progress. Lenine's policy wrecked Russia and a similar policy in England would wreck that nation.

Neither labor nor capital can be a dictator to the extent of crushing individual activity, without bringing about its own downfall.

FLORIDA BOY FINDS NEW JOY EXHIBIT.

"When Homer wrote his 'blissful stumps,' is the latest version of Kipling's famous line, originated recently in Tampa, Fla., when a twentieth century messmate of the famous blind boy, who had been a resident of the state of Florida, was taken to the state of Florida, and in a field of stumps, he was relieved and at the same time worried to learn that this Homer belongs to none of the strange classes of people known as old souls, boozers, artists, or opium eaters, but represents a new species of a recently discovered genus, the ether addict.

Homer's history has been a colorful one. When Uncle Sam assembled the grave youth of the land in 1917, he was among the first to answer the call. For months he marched through France and slept in the mud in the trenches of France. One day Homer's regiment went over the top to meet the enemy. When the smoke of battle cleared away, Homer was found on the field with one leg missing.

When he was taken to a field hospital, the weary passage across the Atlantic to America on a hospital ship followed by days and nights of torture made up the second chapter in his strange story. Finally he was discharged from the hospital with instructions to have the stump of his leg frequently washed.

Homer was quick to discover that the bathing of his wounded member was one of the most pleasant sensations in his drab life. The thick pungent fumes of the anesthetic floating into the nostrils of the man would so numb his senses that all pain was forgotten in a beautiful sensation of release from bodily ills and mental cares. There came to him a realization of unutterable bliss and joy comparable only to the soulful rapture of a skylark soaring in a world of blue sky and happy sunshine.

With each passing day the charm of these brief periods of release from this vale of tears grew more potent. All the miseries, the aches, the pains, the troubles of the world could get into the purchase of the wonderful drug that could so translate him into the realm of beauty and happiness.

The denouement of the pitiful tragedy came one afternoon when he trod into the Red Cross office in Tampa and asked for food and lodging. This was provided him. Early the next morning the authorities were startled and concerned to hear that the wounded man had attempted to commit suicide. Even more startled were they to learn later from the "suicide's" own lips that he had only taken a whiff of ether and subsequently a brief vacation in the happy hunting ground.

The unfortunate ex-soldier appeared anxious to tell his story and to help in ridding himself of the ether habit. He gladly consented to undergo an examination by a specialist provided by the Red Cross, and later submitted to expert treatment in an institution in which he organization got him admitted.

Latest reports declare Homer is greatly improved and, well on the way to a normal, healthy existence, free from excursions into the land of hobgoblins and angels.

Forty graduates of Wesleyan College have become missionaries.

PULLED FROM WELL WITH ROPE AROUND NECK

Jack Murphy, the sage of the Hagain district, was in the city a few days ago and related to the reporter an incident which raises a solemn question of law.

The story was concerning a negro girl in his community who had jumped into a well one night recently in an attempt to end her life. When she struck the cold water, her reason was suddenly restored and she yelled for help. Members of the family responded and led down a rope, instructing the girl to place it beneath her arms and give the signal to pull. The girl gave the signal and the family surface they were amazed to find that she had put the rope around her neck. Her life had almost gone though she was restored after much effort.

The question Jack wants to know is, if she had died would it have been suicide on her part or involuntary manslaughter on the part of those who pulled her out of the well. It seems to be satisfactory all around that the girl was rescued from the well.

One hundred new dresses received this week at OLIVER'S.

GEORGIA COW MAKES A NEW HIGH RECORD

Victor's Annie of Fern Crest, owned by Dr. Wm. Rawlings, of Sandersville, is now the seventh highest producing two-year-old Guernsey cow in the world. In 365 days she produced 13,143.3 pounds of milk and 800.48 pounds of butter (85 per cent fat). She produced a splendid heifer calf within the required time to qualify for a double letter record. Her first calf was a bull and he sold for $750.00. When it is realized that there are only six other Guernseys living or dead that have surpassed this cow it will be realized that the Fern Crest dairy, under the management of W. H. Howell, is doing a most praiseworthy work and is proving the possibilities of dairying in Georgia.

It is a significant fact that only two years ago the highest producing Guernsey two-year-old in the world produced 646 pounds of butter fat in the year. In other words, had this Georgia cow made the splendid record two years ago, she would have been the highest producing Guernsey two-year-old in the world. This cow was born on a Georgia cotton farm and was fed largely on home-grown feeds. It is a splendid example of what may be accomplished and should be an encouragement to every dairyman in the state.

Dr. T. L. Grooms, of Sikeston, died Wednesday afternoon at the local sanitarium, where he had been for several days following an operation for stomach troubles.

Interment was at Lane's church cemetery Thursday afternoon, being preceded by the Masonic ceremony. Deceased was about 40 years of age and was one of the prominent men of the county.

PLANTING HOME GROUNDS ADDS BEAUTY AND VALUE

It takes more than a house to make a home. Likewise it takes more than a beautiful building to make an attractive place. A simple cottage or bungalow beautified with shrubbery, trees, grass and flowers is far more attractive than an imposing mansion with the most luxurious and costly mansion without these plantings.

It is positively pitiful to see the many homes that are without plantings of any kind. Such places may often be seen not only in the country, but in the cities and towns as well. When one can so easily and so inexpensively beautify these bare places with a small amount of shrubbery and trees, grass and flowers, it is nothing short of a calamity for it not to be done.

It is true that one may live just as long in a home that is not properly beautified with trees, shrubbery, etc., but in such a place, one can never get the most out of life. It matters not how little beauty may mean to some people, the person never breathed who would not choose to live in a home properly beautified with trees, shrubbery, etc., than one built out in the open with nothing in the way of shrubbery and grass to tie it to old mother earth. We would, therefore, make an earnest plea that the home grounds be planted.

Do it now, as this planting work can be done any time during the winter or early spring before buds in the plants begin to swell. Many people imagine that it is very expensive to properly plant the home grounds. We believe this is one of the outstanding reasons why so many homes are not planted. It is a mistake to think that a large amount of money is necessary to beautify the home grounds. Of course much money may be spent for this purpose if one has large grounds and wishes to elaborate planting. But the small home or even the large one, may be properly planted with trees, shrubbery, etc., at a price that is well within the reach of everyone.

We have seen many small cottages and bungalows practically re-made in appearance by the planting of only $5 or $10 worth of shrubbery and trees about the place. True, more than this amount should be spent if possible, but if more, than $5 or $10 cannot be spared for this purpose, then by carefully selecting the kinds of shrubbery and trees, one may make a very good showing with this small amount of money. By spending $25 $50 or $75 one can get enough shrubbery and trees to make a most excellent planting about the home. If something elaborate is desired, then a few hundred dollars will bring the desired results.

When looking at this matter from the dollar and cent standpoint only, it pays to plant the home grounds. The very minute one properly plants $25 to $100 worth of shrubbery, trees, flowers and grass on the home grounds, the value of the property is increased anywhere from $600 to $1,000. This has been demonstrated over and over again, and even if beautifying the home grounds means little to one, they should be beautified from the standpoint of making the property more valuable in case it is sold.

Another reason why many people probably do not plant their grounds is because they think it is a difficult job and they do not know how to arrange the trees, shrubs, flowers, etc., so as to secure the desired result. This is not a real difficulty, because expert advice along this line can always be secured free of charge from the horticultural department of the various state agricultural colleges, experiment stations, and nurserymen growing and handling shade trees and shrubbery. These folks are always glad to supply home owners with information as to the proper location of shrubbery and shade trees, the best kind for the different sections of the country, etc. In other words, this lack of information as to planting and location of the shrubbery and trees need not prevent anyone from beautifying the home grounds, because this information may be secured from the above and other sources, free of charge, by any home owner.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

One of the most brilliant affairs of the season was the miscellaneous shower given by Miss Wilma Moore in honor of Miss Cora Mae Everett Wednesday afternoon and evening. The lovely home was elaborately decorated in handsome pot plants and bouquets. The color scheme of yellow and green was carried out in all the rooms. Yellow and green draped and suspended from the lights.

The guests were met at the door by Miss Moore, and presented to the bride. Presiding at the bride's register was Miss Belle Inghram. The dining table held the punch bowl which was banked in fern sprays under which could be seen oranges, bananas and grapes, carrying out the color scheme of yellow and green. Excelsior like were candlesticks holding yellow and green candles, which gave a soft light over the room.

A delicious salad course was served. Later in the evening the young people enjoyed prom. Yellow and green score cards and pencils being used.

Miss Thetis Barnes rendered beautiful piano selection both afternoon and evening. Also the Victrola furnished music.

The gifts, which were displayed in an adjoining room were lovely and very valuable.

A salad course was again served. Each guest expressed themselves as spending a most pleasant evening.

DEPUTY COLLECTOR TO HELP LOCAL TAXPAYERS

J. S. Sutton, of Swainsboro, deputy collector of revenue for this territory, will be in Statesboro from March 3rd to 6th for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in making out their income tax returns. All persons who desire his assistance will find him either at the court house or the Jaekel Hotel during those days.

There have been some little changes in the income tax law during the past few years, and it may be essential that taxpayers are made acquainted with these changes before they undertake to file their returns.

AT BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY.

The pastor will speak at both services at the Baptist church Sunday. In the morning his subject will be "Open Doors of the Soul," Rev. 3:8. At the evening hour he will talk on "Some Contradictions of the Bible," for instance Prov. 26:4 and 26:5, or Gen. 6:6 and 1 Sam. 15:29, and others.

Good music has been arranged for the services and the orchestra will be enlarged by the presence of out-of-town visitors for the day. The public is invited to attend all the services of the church.

CONFERENCE AND COMMUNION AT METHODIST CHURCH.

At the morning hour, next Sunday at the Methodist church, a conference will be held. A review of the work of the past quarter will be the feature of the hour. Reports will be rendered by the various departments of the church. These will show that considerable progress has been made; and that plans are being formed for future activity. Following the conference, the communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

At the evening hour, the laymen of the church will have charge of the service. It will be an interesting program.

Special music will add to the interest and helpfulness of both services. The public is cordially invited.

MISS BRANNEN IN PLAYS AT SHORTER COLLEGE.

A very interesting news item in the Sunday edition of the Rome News-Tribune gives an account of an elaborate "George Washington Dinner" staged by the freshman class of Shorter College, in which Miss Dorla Brannen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brannen of this city, played one of the leading roles.

Miss Brannen also has a prominent part in another play to be given on March 1 in the college auditorium, entitled "Daddy Long Legs," in which the Rome paper writes of very interestingly.

CLASS SOCIAL.

A delightful affair of Wednesday afternoon was the social given by the members of the Treasure Seekers club of the Methodist Sunday-school at the home of Mrs. M. Johnson.

The spacious rooms were decorated with quantities of johnnys and narcissi.

Miss Annie Taylor, in her charming manner, gave a reading. Sandwiches, tea and candies were served. Thirty-five were present.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Mrs. Margaret Williams, who departed this life February, 1924.

In the graveyard safely sleeping, Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one we loved so dearly, In her silent and lonely grave.

No one knows how much we miss her; No one knows the tears we've shed, But in heaven we hope to meet her, Where no farewell words are said.

MADDOO STRENGTH GROWS IN GEORGIA

CHANCES FOR HIM TO SECURE GEORGIA DELEGATION IS INCREASING DAILY.

Augusta, Ga., Mar. 4.—The chances of William G. Maddoo to secure the Georgia delegation grow stronger every day. The large number of Maddoo clubs over the state have increased rapidly, especially during the past week after his hat of ardent supporters so enthusiastically endorsed his candidacy and dozens of citizens hourly seek to be counted among his friends.

From Augusta, Thomas J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle and chairman of the Georgia Maddoo committee, who headed the Georgia delegation at the Chicago convention in February 18th and assured them in attendance in a brilliant speech that Georgia, the state of Mr. Maddoo's nativity, was a solid unit behind his candidacy, has issued the following statement:

"The state of Georgia, never latent in its behalf in the superiority of its native son as the one democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States who is certain of election to that high office, has come out stronger than ever in its demand that the delegation from Georgia be sent to the national democratic convention in New York with instructions to stand one hundred percent behind the candidacy of William G. Maddoo."

"Maddoo clubs in the state, numbering over one hundred with membership of over 50,000 men and women, are strengthening themselves and numbers of other clubs are springing up in all sections of the state. Reports received from these organizations are most encouraging. Constantly from every county come reports of leading citizens making enthusiastic talks in behalf of his candidacy."

"Recently at Monroe, during the noon recess of court, E. B. Weatherly, prominent Macon attorney, delivered a strong speech for Mr. Maddoo and was enthusiastically received. Previous to speaking, Mr. Weatherly made a number of business districts of the Monroe in company with Ed A. Caldwell, editor of the Walton News, and was most cordially received. He found Mr. Maddoo supporters at every turn and was assured that Maddoo would carry Walton county."

"This is only an instance of the general trend of expression throughout the state. Only a few days ago Mrs. Edgar Alexander, of Atlanta, state manager of the women's headquarters of the Georgia Maddoo committee, issued a statement in which she declared that Mr. Maddoo was the most feared of the democratic candidates. Mrs. Alexander asserted that where Mr. Maddoo's support was thought less strong was where republicans were carrying on a poison campaign in behalf of any candidate rather than him, for Mrs. Alexander repeats, the republicans are afraid of Mr. Maddoo."

"Georgians realize that William G. Maddoo, native born Georgian and lover of the south, will sweep the country overwhelmingly in the democratic ticket, and they are going to call for their delegation when they go to the primaries on March 19th, to stand behind him at the national democratic convention in June."

The entire club, singers, orchestra accompanist and director, is composed of thirty-nine girls, Prof. Edgar Alexander, the director, and Mrs. Howerton, the accompanist. Certainly in all the years of its history, Wesleyan, the oldest chartered college for women in the world, has never collected a better balanced musical organization of any description.

In the entire personnel of the organization, however, Georgia, the Southland, and Wesleyan once more uphold their traditions of sending out as representatives of the "oldest and best" a bevy of beauties that would do honor to the brush and comb of America's most renowned artists.

This club will play under the auspices of the American Legion in the high school auditorium at Millen, Tuesday, April 1st, at 8:30 o'clock. Reserved seats go on sale March 26.

Just received a full line of garden seeds, both bulk and package. A. O. BLAND.

GEORGIANS VOTE FOR MADDOO OR UNDERWOOD

ONLY TWO ENTRANTS IN PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY WHEN LIST CLOSED.

Atlanta, March 4.—Georgia Democrats will cast their twenty-four votes in the national Democratic convention in New York in June for either Oscar W. Underwood or William G. Maddoo. This was made known today when the time limit for filing candidates for the presidential preferential primary in the Democratic party closed, and Maddoo and Underwood were the only entrants.

The primary takes place March 19. United States Senator James Reed, of Missouri, had been expected to enter the list. Thomas W. Hardwick, former governor, issued a statement away from the state, saying that he was not to enter his name.

"Senator Reed had both hoped and expected to be able to come to Georgia before our primary and make a number of addresses here in support of his candidacy. This was necessary because two other candidates had already perfected state-wide organizations and most of the newspapers of the state had already espoused the cause of the one or the other of these candidates," the former governor declared.

"The early date of the Georgia primary," he continued, "coupled with the fact that engagements of Senator Reed in Missouri, and other western states will take up all of his time now make it impossible for him to come to this state and address its people before the primary."

"The candidate that carries the majority of the delegates under the county unit system will control the convention and gain the delegation to New York. Each county is entitled to twice as many delegates as representatives are giving full co-operation to the movement."

Leaders in the Methodist church throughout the state are also aiding in the Wesleyan campaign, and since the college is the only Methodist institution of its kind in the region, strong support from the denomination is expected. Importance of providing adequate facilities for the Christian education of the girls of the south is one of the points being stressed by the leaders in the Wesleyan campaign.

Arrangements for the opening dinner to be held on the night of March 27th are now being made and at
